

Getting Involved!

Dalat is more than a school – it’s an energetic, vibrant community. It’s a home away from home, a place to plug in and connect with international families. We encourage staff to be involved in campus life outside of their primary responsibilities. This may mean coaching a sports or drama team, leading a singing group, taking kids on a missions trip, sponsoring a class, or being a Scout leader.

We offer an extensive array of extra-curricular activities including instrumental and vocal music, drama, student government, class activities, outreach ministries, and individual and team sports. The middle and high school academic day includes time for elective courses in art, computer, journalism, industrial arts, food science, choir, band and more. Students enjoy non-academic “P period” options ranging from kickboxing to investing in the stock market. Elementary students have ample opportunity to enroll in after-school clubs that range from student government to Boy and Girl Scouts.

Staff are expected to engage themselves in some extra-curricular activities. Elementary teachers are required to sponsor an after school club each quarter for one day a week. Middle and high school teachers offer “P period” options. There are plenty of places to plug in! Consider your giftedness and how you can contribute to this dynamic ministry.

For a most complete listing of activities, visit the school’s website. Click on Students and scroll down to the Activities and Clubs page (<http://www.dalat.org/activities.html>). For more information about elementary clubs, e-mail the club coordinator Carla Loehden (cloehden@dalat.org). For middle and high school, e-mail the student council advisors, Mike and Lyn Holden (mholden@dalat.org).
